“ We called him Springy. He was good with radiographic testing at PRL, but he was great at photography! I was initially hired to design brochures, and Springy and I spent hours going from one facility or department to another. We even went up in a small - very small - plane to take aerial shots of the Cornwall and Lebanon facilities. His camera, head, and hands were out the plane window, just to get the perfect shot. I prayed. We laughed a lot, but the job got done. His family meant everything to him. And we were always on the lookout for additions for "Bobbi's" glass candy collection. Godspeed Springy, and now you have the perfect aerial view...
