“ I will miss Arlenes banana box deliveries and unannounced visits. The time she took to sit and chat with me. Kept me in line, making sure I was being the best version of myself, that I could be! She had that spunk and fire, that I loved, pulsating throughout her veins. A real unique lady, who defied the boring mindless standards of so many people on this earth today. She loved and helped the ones the world saw as dead weight or bothersome. Never looking at them less and never tired of their struggles to do better....grace and words of wisdom came from her. People who I thought were real trash, she gave the benefit of the doubt and helped me to see their best sides. This world lost a little brightness the moment she took her last breath. My heart has a hole in it, that will not be easily filled. I loved Arlene so much, and will miss her greatly.

“ My prayers are with you. There so much to say about aunt arlene so I will do my big ones. First, as a baby i always thought she was my mom instead of my mom (that what twin my mom told me!) And i will always be grateful of how she taught me about the Vietnam war and how she did so much charity at the VA hospital and included me to help her. She was such a caring person. She always called me suzie which not many can get away with that! She will be missed xxoo
