“ I remember going to his daughter's house for yearly Christmas "sing-a-longs" and Mr. Snoke loved to sing, laugh, tell jokes, and be with his family. I remember, in particular, with his grandchildren (and other children who were there) as they gathered round him and he recited "Twas the Night Before Christmas" like I've never heard it before. With his deep resounding voice, he used such emphasis and enthusiasm, you felt like you actually were awaiting Santa and it all seemed so real. He loved his a wonderful family, and I'm sure they miss him dearly, but may they have peace knowing he is with his wife (and their mother and grandmother) who has gone to heaven before him. God Bless.
