“ It was summer, 1961, and I was at Hershey Park with my good friend Judy Fasnacht when we met some soldiers. One of them was Don Barchet. He stood out from the rest because he talked the most, was very funny and also the best looking. He immediately had an interest in Judy. The rest is history. Through all the years I've known Don, he's always had a great laugh, a joke to tell, and a good heart to help anyone who needed something. May he now rest in peace, his earthly work is finished. God Bless Judy and her family as they celebrate Don's memory.
