“ Uncle Jim was a fun guy. I always looked forward to the annual picnics at his home. There were pony rides, good food, the bomb shelter and a chance to visit with all the cousins. I'm glad Uncle Jim was a part of my life.

“ Leaving Pennsylvania and moving with my family to Virginia when I was a mere 9 months old, makes most of memories seasonal; however, I remember riding the ponies. The boys always gave me the slowest one. The meals around the big kitchen table, the "bomb shelter" basement, Uncle Jim boisterously singing as he pumped the player piano, halloween hayrides...May God welcome him along with his many brothers and sisters who smile as he enters their arms

“ I remember going to his house for a family picnic when was about 10. His children had one or two ponies and a great tree house and a bomb shelter in the basement. Uncle Jim was always playing tricks on us kids. Pat Seyfert Krall

“ I have nothing but fond memories of Uncle Jim, trips to Doodlebug Park, taking us to Christmas parties for the kids at Royal Security Fire Co. and even pulling out a loose tooth with pliers (I remember Mom not being very happy about that, haha). He always seemed to have some kind of trick up his sleeve to show us and I still remember one of them. It was good knowing you Uncle Jim!

I remember Pop Pop making a wagon with carpet so that I could go on a hayless "hayride" because I was allergic to hay. I got to have my friends over for Halloween. I'm so glad to have had so many years with Pop Pop and that I was able to be there when he needed me and a brother we could both count on!
