“ Oh Ryan... I don't even have words to describe how much you meant to me. I can still remember trekking through a foot of snow to your house by Johnson's. You teaching me to use a snowblower and then demand that I was only meant for those bulldozers keys and stirring the chicken corn noodle soup on the stove. Astro and I played, we warmed up with soup and watched jeopardy. I even left my ear warmers there. I constantly stole your hat because I know you loved when I wore it. My heart was so full when you found Sarah because you have deserved the love you gave to everyone else for so long. I'm so sorry I lost touch and couldn't be there. You shaped such a young and vulnerable part of my life and were always a phone call away. This world and those memories we made together will never be something I forget . I adore you always. There are so many more moments but those moments I'd like to hold close to me because they were ours and only ours.. I will miss your sweet, fun loving spirit. I love and miss you endlessly. Find peace and rest. I have no doubt that when I see you again it will be just as east to pick where we left off like we always did. ❤️ your tiny table dancer. Know that you are so loved by so many
