“ June also to us and many known as nana, momma, June bug and whatever else some may like to call her will be deeply missed and always remembered by anyone who knew her. She was one of the absolute most wonderful and strong women and human being in the entire universe for sure! She was someone I have met years back and not that many really but 2012 and is my husband's grandmother. She was June to me first but only for a few days literally as to she had a way with her that I adored and would instantly make a person she just met feel like they were a lifelong loved one of her and vice versa and she made me feel like I was at home and comfortable and like I was loved deeply and safe at her home and days prior when I went to be there with my child and only met her one or two times before and was really uncomfortable and not feeling I should be burdening her and her daughter and their home and space and my son was around 3 then and they both immediately were so close and bonded with each other and like he was her blood grandchild and him like she was his blood nana and he was very hyper then more than even now and also autistic and therefore had a way with him and does still that he doesn't easily love and respect and trust people that fast and has to feel sure of things first and be content near them and with her he was the time he met her and to the end of her time was still but so much more close to her and loves and respects her more than anyone I ever met besides me who is his own momma and my husband Quintin his daddy since 3 who has been and always will be his daddy and loved him so much he took him as his own child and would refuse for sure to ever not be his daddy and did not have to do that with a huge responsibility that was not his and the bio one never cared to and I am so happy with that and that my husband was raised his whole life by Nana as one of his parents as well and she loved with them since he was three months old and that is part of why he is a good guy that does things like this and she taught him that was how you are to be and that's how she was always and I adored that and all about her so much! All the time I know her till now she has become my own nana as well and she called me her grandchild also and I love her so deeply and forever will keep her memories alive and never let my kids forget things and her but they wouldn't ever! My other child alexxia is six now and she is her great grandmother and she also has always loved her so much it's amazing and has respect so much for her too and she always loved to sit and hold alexxia and teach her things she knew from her time era and about Jesus and all of that and said how much of a sweet little girl she was and was so so thrilled to get to where we lived when alexxia was born and was so excited and happy and loved her and it was I'll be remembered how beautiful that was forever! Nana I love you so much and respect you more than I did almost anyone left in the world and I thank u for the time and life with u u gave us all since we known u and I hope that you are now resting your body and not tired anymore and living the high life in heaven and being with Jesus like u were wanting to go do now and remember to always be with all of us and let us feel your wonderful presence as our law perfect angel and see u again one day !!!!! :(
