“ I first met Kitty in church at St. Luke's. She always looked so happy that she made me happy. After she went to live at Spangcrest, my husband and I used to visit her there. At first we played Yahtzee with her. Then she told us she and her husband used to like to put puzzles together. So for a little while, we used to do puzzles together. It was great fun. She told me that the whole family would work on puzzles together, and that someone would always hide the last piece in his pocket. I told my grandchildren about this, so they started hiding pieces in their pockets, just to trick me. This past Christmas, my older son gave me a 1000-piece puzzle to work on. I never in my life thought I would be able to handle such a huge puzzle, but now it is one-third done. Every single time I work on it, I think of Kitty and all the joy she brought me in the short time I got to know her. She was a beautiful lady, and I will miss her very much.
