“ Even though I haven't seen "Sis"" in many, many years, I still have tons of memories of her and my mom doing opera fudge together in our kitchen in the very early years of our candy business. Her husband, "Charlie" and my dad worked at the Steel Foundry together also, so our families grew up together. They were part of a card club and went on many vacations together to Wildwood. When I think of Sis, I still remember her and Charlie sitting outside their end room at the Caprice Motel and drinking their whiskey sours. We had a lot of fun in those early years of the candy business and I remember whenever I got in trouble for something and my mom was giving me grief, Sis would always stick up for me. So sorry to hear the last of the card club has passed and my deepest condolences to Elaine, Steve, Cath and Donald and all of your families. Kirk VanWinkle

“ Remembering Marilyn, the strong-willed woman who came into our classroom to do sewing projects with the children. They loved when she came with her sewing machine. They willingly followed her directions and were very proud of their finished projects. She would sit them at the sewing machine, one by one, and give them directions. Never once did they stitch a finger to their projects. I admired Her, I loved Her, and I thank Her for the wonderful memories she created. Rest in PEACE Dear Friend and know You were loved. Fondly, Sheila K. Messersmith
