In her final years, one of her great joys was making flower pens for others, which she gave away freely. One of her favorite past-times was playing dominoes with her children and friends. She loved doing puzzles as well, and always had one in progress on her table. A good visit with family usually included Taco Bell for lunch, topped off with a mini-ice cream cone!

Pauline was a faithful member of St. Paul the Apostle Church in Annville, PA, where she worshipped for 50 years. She was a member of the Faith Sharing group there as well. She enjoyed donating her craft items and time to the church bazaar.

In 1975, Pauline became a volunteer for the Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees who were relocated to Ft. Indiantown Gap after the fall of Saigon. She became lifelong friends with a family whom she connected with at that time. After raising her family, Pauline worked at Hershey Medical Center and Good Samaritan Hospital in the Medical Records Department and volunteered serving Meals on Wheels for several years.
