“ We went on some good trips with Bob & Darlene. The Bourbon Trail was great fun with all the Makers Mark ambassadors on board. We got to really know them when we went on a cruise together. Bob was a really good guy & had a great sense of humor. Our deepest condolences to Darlene & the family.

“ I have so many memories of Bob, we were close friends, having met at Eagles Peak Campground, most of our friendship had to do with our love for Makers Mark bourbon. One of my favorite stories has to do with a bottle of Makers that I purchased at the liquor store in Womelsdorf. First you must know that each bottle of Makers is dipped in wax to seal the cap. I purchased a bottle that I took down to share with Bob and Shoppie, it had nine drips or runs in the wax. Shoppie and Bob heard that if a bottle had more than five drips it was worth money. Bob and Shoppie were ecstatic when they saw my bottle. They immediately packed up and went down to the liquor store and checked all the bottles on the shelf, finding none they asked the manager to check all the bottles in the back, again finding none. After checking on line, we discovered the whole concept was a joke. All bottles are worth the same no matter how many drips.
