“ Sorry to hear from Aunt Judy he passed away. He was always laughing and playing jokes when I was a kid. One memory I have. He taught us how to play “punch bug”. He would sit in the back seat with us kids and every time a Volkswagen would be seen we had to see who could say punch bug first which was followed by a punch in the shoulder. Not hard of course but always a laugh. I will miss calling him on Sundays to just see how he was doing. Just so long as I did not call when the races were on. 💕. Keep memories close and remember all the good times. Life goes by faster than we think it will.

“ You never discussed your time in the war. But when I was told the story of when you went to Washington DC to the Vietnam Memorial and all you could do was drop to your knees and cry, it told me everything I needed to know. Thank you for your service. And thank you for being our dad.
