“ My husband and I were just recalling a recital of Mr. Fairlamb's that we attended a few years after I graduated. (We had just begun dating, and I was anxious for him to hear a performance of my illustrious former teacher). One of the pieces was a composition for left hand alone, and as always, he performed it flawlessly. In conversation afterward, he told he had had to give up coffee for three weeks to make sure he his hand would be steady enough to play it!
